WILL MARPLE'S DOINGS

CITIZENS UNITE TO HONOR SOLDIER BOYS AND GIVE THEM A GOOD TIME

Dr. Joseph Marple reports that the letters from his brother Will Marple, now at the naval training station in Philadelphia, are most interesting. He enioyed the journey across the continent immensely, the country was beautiful under its snowy covering, and everywhere people came out to do honor to the soldier boys. At Altoona ladies met the train and served refreshments and candy to the boys.

They are doing very little training, merely waiting to be sent abroad and not knowing when the summons will come. When it does they will have but two hours' warning and their friends will know only by the fact that the letters cease. They are taking turns at guard duty, however, Will's turn having come on the night of the 23rd from 1 to 4 a. m.

Will writes that the naval quarters there are about ten times as large as those at San Pedro, and the rooms are nice and warm. They were not prepared for the boys when they first arrived and had to send them to hotels to sleep the first night. Their mess equipment was somewhat nondescript too, but in a few days it was adjusted and everything satisfactory. In spite of the cold to which the California boys are unaccustomed, all are dressed warmly and are comfortable and well.

Nineteen boys were detailed to check up supplies for the hospital unit to which Will belongs. It took them three days, which conveys some idea of the quantities required for hospital equipment.

Philadelphia people have shown themselves very kind about inviting the soldiers to their homes and the first Sunday Will spent in the city he was entertained by a millionaire who took him to church in his automobile and gave him a very fine time.

A DAKOTA PIONEER

F. J. Formanack, 216 Cedar, is firmly wedded to California's sunny clime, but his memory still harks back to the North Dakota prairies. He settled near Wahpeton in 1871, when thousands upon thousands of acres of prairie land lay untouched by the plow. The only trees were those bordering streams, so Mr. Formanack with a foresight shown by very few of his neighbors, set part of his acreage to ash, elm, box elder and willow trees in addition to apple and other fruit trees, 2 to 4 feet apart, in rows 6 feet apart, and cultivated them regularly. When they got large enough, they were used for lumber and fuel, but a new one was set out in place of each one cut down. So to this day, on Mr. Formanack's farm, for he still owns the same place he squatted on in '71, there is timber in plenty for all purposes.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT

The annual Christmas exercises of the Christian Sunday School were given Monday night. As it was Christmas eve, when many families like to be together around the imaginary "yule log" the attendance was not large. As announced, the admission fee was an apple or potato and a large box full was secured, which will be taken to the Old Folks' Home at Long Beach. The program was opened with the playing of "Trinity Chimes" by the pianist, Miss Florence Heacock and the way her skillful fingers brought out the exact tones of a set of chimes was wonderful. Selections by the choir and songs and recitations by the children, completed the exercises and then the "White Gifts for the King," most of them in the shape of envelopes containing money, were laid at the foot of the white cross that formed a conspicuous part of the beautiful decorations. The money will be sent to the National Benevolent Home of the Christian Churches, in St. Louis.

JOYFUL CHRISTMAS

Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Norton, of 373 West Third street, will remember Christmas, 1917, as a very happy one as they had with them five of their six children with their families on that day. A most bountiful Christmas dinner was served at noon and the host and hostess were recipients of many beautiful gifts. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Norton of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Norton of Fillmore, M. E. Norton, wife and children, Robert and Marjorie of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Jones of Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hillyard and daughter Phyllis of Los Angeles all members of the immediate family, and Mrs. Fannie Barmore of Los Angeles. One son of Rev. and Mrs. Norton and his family, who resides in Arizona, were unable to be present.

ALINE SPINK A BRIDE

QUIETLY MARRIED TO SERGT. LESTER SCHULTZ OF 158TH AMBULANCE CORPS

Glendale has its war marriages as well as other cities of the Southland. The interested parties in the latest romance of this kind were Miss Aline Spink, daughter of Mrs. L. G. Spink, proprietor of the Dolly Varden candy store, and Sergeant Lester Schultz, of the 158th Ambulance Corps, Camp Kearny.

It was a very quiet wedding which took place at the home of Rev. Myers, one of the Presbyterian clergymen of the city, and the only witnesses were the mother of the bride, her aunt, Mrs. E. T. Otis, and her cousin, Norman Otis, who is First Class Seaman in Uncle Sam's navy.

Following the wedding the bridal party returned to Glendale where a family Christmas dinner was enjoyed Tuesday in celebration of the event. Sergeant Schultz returns to Camp Kearny tonight. Mrs. Schultz will remain here with her mother. Norman Otis' furlough lasts until next Sunday.

CHRISTMAS DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Lee, of 106 Cedar street were host and hostess at a beautifully appointed midday Christmas dinner. Poinsettias, the Christmas flower, centered the table, and Christmas decorations featured place cards and favors. The guest list included C. B. Miltenberger, brother of Mrs. Lee, and Mrs. Miltenberger, who are spending a few days with the Lees, also Mr. and Mrs. William Weller, Mrs. Crawford and Miss Crawford of Long Beach, and Mrs. Steele, of Pomona, who is the house guest of Mrs. Lee.

PROFIT IN HENS

W. J. Stone, 341 North Brand, is one poultryman with but a few hundred hens who reports a reasonable profit in spite of the high cost of feed, though not sufficient to constitute what would be called a successful business. Mr. Stone spent the most of his life in Ford County, Illinois, where the soil is so black and rich that corn fairly "can be seen to grow" as they say back there, and is therefore used to big things in farming and home chicken raising.

ST. MARK'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH

The Christmas service Tuesday was well attended. Tonight the Sunday School will give their Christmas entertainment in the church at 7:30. There will be a play called "The Christmas Conspiracy" by fourteen of the children. There will be a Christmas tree. Besides everybody coming will be expected to bring something for the Manger, as this is a White Christmas and we want to make others happy also. Parents and friends of the children will be welcome.

FAMILY REUNION

Rev. George Eley and wife, of 1210 Lomita avenue, were a happy couple Christmas day, for children and grandchildren to the number of 32 gathered in from far and near to enjoy the holiday time with them. Could the soldier members of the family and those living in the Far East have been here, the number would have been 44. Those present enjoyed a bountiful dinner and all in all it was a most happy and joyous occasion to these worthy old people.

A LIBERTY BOY

One 10-year-old boy in Glendale, Francis Hyde of 1618 Colorado, set a record in the last Liberty Bond drive. The only way he saw to pay for it was to sell a well known weekly paper and monthly magazine. So he and his sister Dorothy, a little larger than himself, buckled down to the work and the bond payments are being met.

FIERCE FIGHTING ON ITALIAN FRONT

GERMANS ARE MAKING A SUPREME EFFORT TO REACH VENETIAN PLAINS BEFORE WINTER STOPS ADVANCE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMIES, December 26.—Fierce fighting between Buso and Monte Valbella is in progress today. Despite violent Italian attacks, the enemy at fearful cost holds the two-thirds of a mile gain achieved on Saturday. At Monte Grappa enemy attacks were timed to coincide with the Valbella assault, but failed to gain the objective. On the Piave front the Austrians tried to fraternize with the Italians but were answered with machine gun fire. The Teutons are apparently making a last supreme effort to reach the Venetian plains before winter puts an end to further advance into Italy.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS POSTPONED

GERMANY HAS ASKED RUSSIA TO DEFER DISCUSSION OF TERMS UNTIL JANUARY 24

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PETROGRAD, December 26.—Germany has asked for a postponement of peace negotiations until January 24, it was semi-officially announced today. Negotiations have been suspended, therefore, pending a consultation of German delegates with their government on Russia's terms.

BOLSHEVIKI MINISTER FRANK

VOROVSKY ADMITS HIS FACTION CANNOT RETAIN GRIP ON RUSSIA AFTER FORCING SEPARATE PEACE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

STOCKHOLM, December 26.—Frank belief that the Bolsheviki will be unable to retain their grip on Russia after forcing a separate peace with Germany is expressed by Bolsheviki minister Vorovsky. "The Bolsheviki will never conclude an undemocratic peace," he told the United Press. "The war will be continued if Germany insists on her policy of annexation. We still hope that a general peace is possible but we will fight defensively until a general democratic peace is achieved. We admit that we do not intend to remain in power after peace is achieved."

IRON WORKERS STRIKE

TWELVE THOUSAND MEN FAIL TO APPEAR FOR WORK UPON REFUSAL OF DEMAND FOR WAGE INCREASE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SAN FRANCISCO, December 26.—Twelve thousand iron trades workers failed to appear for work this morning as a result of their demand for a 10 per cent increase in wages being refused. They are preparing to strike. Both sides are obdurate. A federal mediator is urging a settlement to avert a general walk-out.

GOVERNOR'S LIFE THREATENED

LETTER DEMANDS $50,000 BE LEFT AT CERTAIN PLACE IN OAKLAND EVENING OF DECEMBER 31

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SACRAMENTO, December 26.—Governor Stephens received a letter this afternoon in which a threat was made that unless he leaves $50,000 at a certain place in Oakland on the evening of December 31, he and two other state officials and the entire Sacramento detective department will be blown up. The letter is signed C. C. C. and states that dynamite has already been placed under the governor's mansion, the state capitol building and the homes of two other state officials, undesignated. The explosive will be set off if the money is not left at the place designated. If the money is left the dynamite will be removed. The letter was printed from rubber type similar to the one found in the yard of the governor's mansion when Hiram Johnson was governor. It is not known whether the letter has any connection with the I. W. W., two of whom are in jail connected with the recent attempt on the life of the governor.

TELL BAKER TO CUT OUT RED TAPE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, December 26.—The Senate Military Committee told Secretary of War Baker to cut out the red tape and supply every man in the cantonments and training camps with clothing suitable for winter. The committee unanimously adopted a resolution demanding that Baker give the camp commanders authority to purchase trousers and overcoats in the nearest towns if they can be secured there quicker than through the quartermaster's department.

RED CROSS CONCERT

The third monthly Red Cross Concert will be given on Thursday evening next, December 27th, in the new Methodist church, Third and Kenwood streets.

This will be a sacred concert and an excellent program has been arranged for by Dr. Harrower. The stellar numbers on the program will be songs by Mme. Katharine Shank, whose voice has pleased so many music lovers in Glendale and elsewhere.

Members of the Red Cross, both new and old, are invited to be at the church at 8 o'clock Thursday to enjoy this entertainment. There will be no admission, though a silver offering will be taken.

The committee on entertainment is grateful to the Church Board for the generous use of the church and especially to the choir who will rearrange their practice schedule so that the church can be made available.

Urge your friends to come to this sacred concert. Come yourself. Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Admission free.

More than 800 new Red Cross memberships have been secured in the recent drive in Glendale and these should show their loyalty to the cause by coming out.

MR. McCREA TO SPEAK

Rev. T. F. McCrea came up from Camp Kearny to spend Christmas in Glendale with his wife and mother as the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Vernon H. Cowsert at the Baptist parsonage. He will remain for a few days and Mr. Cowsert has asked him to be present at the regular church prayer meeting this evening and talk on life at Camp Kearny. The meeting will open at 7:30 and it will be an excellent opportunity to learn something of camp conditions from Mr. McCrea's view point.

HOLY SMOKE

Many former Easterners now in California find their thoughts turn longingly back to "hog killin' time" and to the delicious hams and shoulders as well as slabs of bacon, that resulted therefrom. These parts cured in the old smokehouse over the burning hickory, hard maple or sassafras wood, far surpassed in flavor all the "sugar cured" meats from the packing houses.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

Elder Clifford A. Cole, of the Glendale Christian church was the means this year of reviving a custom which it is a sad pity was ever allowed to fall into neglect. At 5 o'clock Christmas morning he gathered his auto full of singers from his church and took them around to many homes of his flock, where beautiful Christmas carols were sung. We trust this old custom may be permanently revived.

EN ROUTE TO FRANCE

GLENDALE CLERGYMAN ENLISTS AS Y.M.C.A. WORKER IN THE GREAT WORLD WAR

Last Saturday evening the Sunday School of the First Congregational church gave their Christmas entertainment to a large and attentive audience. The church was decorated in a highly artistic manner, patriotism mingling with the spirit of Christmas. The classes and individual members participating in the program were well received and generously applauded. The Sunday School provided a liberal donation of good things to eat and Christmas cheer for the Children's Hospital of Los Angeles. A collection from the Sunday School and audience amounting to $30.50 was taken for the Armenian Relief Fund. Santa Claus, noting the unselfish spirit manifested could not resist the temptation to drop in and pay his respects to the children by presenting them with a remembrance in the form of candy and nuts.

Following the Sunday School entertainment a reception was held in honor of the pastor, Dr. E. H. Willisford and his good wife. (Dr. Willisford, at this writing, is on his way to New York City and will in a few days sail for France to enter war work under the Y. M. C. A. Mrs. Willisford, during the Doctor's absence, will reside at Claremont, where their daughter, Miss Carol, is attending Pomona College.)

The church was crowded with the members of the congregation and friends who were very sorry to have these good people leave our community, but who were at the same time glad and proud of the fact that Dr. Willisford felt a distinct call to this service for his country and humanity and was willing and anxious to go in order that he might serve his fellow men where it is most needed.

W. D. McRae, of the Y. M. C. A., who is also a charter member of the Congregational church, gave a five minute talk reviewing the growth and work in the church which was organized by Dr. Willisford. His talk was interesting and devoted to Y. M. C. A. war work and patriotism as well as church work. Mr. McRae paid a fine tribute to the character and labors of Dr. Willisford in this church in the course of his remarks which received the commendation of his hearers. At the conclusion of his talk he presented Dr. Willisford with a handsome silk flag on behalf of himself and family and the flag will henceforth follow him into France while he in the performance of his duties will in turn follow the flag.

Mrs. Blake Franklin, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, on behalf of that organization, made a most inspiring and patriotic presentation speech, at the conclusion of which Dr. Willisford was handed a substantial remembrance, a token of his splendid service and the high regard in which he is held by his congregation.

H. W. Yarick, in behalf of the church, formally presented the same with a service flag containing three stars. Mr. Yarick's remarks were full of patriotism and our duty to the young men on the firing line.

Following closing remarks by Mr. Dudley, Superintendent of the Sunday School, the audience joined in singing, "God Be With You, 'Till We Meet Again," after which refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

Sunday morning the communion service was held. The church was crowded and the service was very impressive. The holy spirit seemed to be everywhere present and it will be a service long remembered by those present. Dr. Willisford administered the rites of baptism to five children and six new members were received into the church.

Sunday evening the choir, under the direction of A. R. Chappell, presented the beautiful Christmas cantata "The Star of Bethlehem." This was by far the best yet given by this splendid body of singers. Mrs. Cleve, a well known reader of Los Angeles, read an appropriate scripture, and Mrs. Gertrude Follensbee, the talented reader of Glendale, read the shepherd scene from "Ben Hur." Burt Richardson, who recently returned from active service in France, gave an interesting description of conditions at the front and displayed a collection of war relics after the service. Mr. Richardson will return to France shortly to remain the duration of the war.

DEATH OF A NATIVE SON

Samuel C. Henderson, who came here recently from Ventura for medical treatment, died Tuesday at 10:30 a. m. of asphyxia. He was a rancher, 54 years of age and had lived in California all his days. The body will be taken to Santa Paula for burial.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1917

THINK, TALK VICTORY!

"You ask me what my war aims are? My aim is to be a victor." Thus Clemenceau, the new French premier, spoke to the chamber of deputies. The chamber promptly voted its confidence overwhelmingly.

Clemenceau sounded the right note, not only for France but for all the allied nations; not only for the nations collectively but for every patriotic individual thereof. There must be no thought of compromise with the world's enemy. There must be nothing, even in the face of any setback, save a steel-hand determination to conquer.

This counsel is not reserved for statesmanship alone. It comes instinctively from the patriotic mind. George W. Hootman says, and rightly, that the man who is ready to defend his country and the world's freedom "should think victory, talk victorious peace, and never falter in his purpose to work and fight for the glorious triumph of justice. Such a spirit will be invincible."

Invincible it is and will be. It will triumph over enemies abroad and over those of too little faith at home. Suggestion is powerful, and the thought and talk of victory will communicate force and fervor to those too prone to imagine there is something insuperable in German arms. Words are thoughts and thoughts are things. Thinking, talking victory is an absolute condition precedent to gaining it.

The man who talks of the impossibility of beating Germany is a bad American. The man who talks of compromise with militarism and autocracy sins against the nation. This is no time for an attitude of philosophical suspense on the part of any patriot; still less for exhibitions of world sorrow and dejecton. It is a time for girding up the loins, for putting our feet upon the solid rock of dauntless resolution, for triumphing absolutely over every doubt or fear that stands between us and the thought of ultimate success!

"In spite of all we shall conquer the Goths!"—Chicago Herald.

APPOINTMENT OF ENDORSEMENT COMMITTEE

Immediate appointment of an "Endorsement Committee," which will pass upon projects for soliciting funds for military welfare work, is urged in a resolution adopted today at a meeting of the Executive Committee of Northern Members of the California Women's Committee of National and State Councils of Defense.

That close inspection of all projects which propose to solicit funds for real or alleged war activities is necessary, is the text of the resolution, which recommends that a State Committee to consider such projects be formed by joint action of the State Council of Defense and the California Women's Committee of the National and State Council of Defense.

The Southern California executive committee of the women's branch of the State Council recently passed resolutions urging that Governor Stephens or the State Council of Defense take steps for the regulation of the soliciting of funds for war aid and war charities. More than 20 civic organizations throughout the State already have written to the State Council urging that a closer check be kept upon the soliciting of funds for war purposes.

It is the plan of A. H. Naftzger, vice-chairman of the State Council of Defense, to call a conference immediately after the holidays for the consideration of this subject and chambers of commerce and similar organizations throughout the State will be asked to send representatives. Co-ordinating of patriotic activities under one directing organization also will be taken up at that time.

THE PRESIDENT'S DEFINITION OF GERMANISM

Innumerable articles and many books have been written to define "Germanism" and show to the world what it means.

In his message to Congress December 4 President Wilson defines it as follows:

"This intolerable Thing of which the masters of Germany have shown us the ugly face, this menace of combined intrigue and force which we now see so clearly as the German power, a Thing without conscience or honor or capacity for covenanted peace."

This Thing must be crushed, and if not truly brought to an end, at least shut out from the friendly intercourse of the nations, says the President, and it is only when this Thing and its power are indeed defeated that the time can come when we can discuss peace with the German people.

AMERICAN WOMEN HELP REBUILD FRENCH VILLAGES

By W. S. Forrest

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN THE FIELD—A big limousine recently ambled into what was once a village of the Aisne in Northern France—now two piles of jumbled stone separated by a road. A woman stepped out of the car. She wore a horizon blue tunic neatly tailored and with pockets cut after the fashion of French officers. Her skirt was of the same material as well as the mannish untrimmed hat. In her hand she carried a walking stick.

"Sylvie, how's that cow?" she questioned an old French woman. Sylvie avowed that the cow was fine and giving more milk every day. Then the conversation drifted to pots and pans and other things Sylvie needed in her new home built where the old home used to be before the war. The woman of the uniform made some notes on a writing pad, climbed into the car, waved "Au Revoir" and disappeared up the road.

The woman of the limousine and uniform was Miss Anna Morgan, daughter of the late J. P. Morgan, and now guardian angel over some 26 ruined villages of the Aisne where war has reached the stage of reconstruction.

Like the cat who refuses to desert the ruins of a burned farmhouse, the people who inhabited those villages before the Germans drove them out and burned or blew up everything that stood, are beginning to came back one by one.

Old Sylvie was one of the first to return. The cow she spoke of was a community cow. Except for the fifteen cows brought into the district by the Civil Section of the American Fund for French Wounded, headed by Anna Morgan in the field, the entire 26 villages are cowless. Five of these cows are now in the various ruined villages—sold to the community at cost price. Ten cows remain at Miss Morgan's headquarters—five new wooden barracks and what remains of the ancient Chateau, destroyed during the French Revolution but today keeping company with the ruined houses of Blerancourt village. Sixty families get their milk morning and night at the Chateau even though in some cases it means a walk of several miles.

Assisting Miss Morgan are nineteen young American women who with five autocamions make daily visits to all of the 26 villages. Each young woman looks after a village and some of them have two.

If the returning villagers have money they are enabled to buy necessities of every description delivered by the young Americans with their camions. If the villagers return destitute it is only necessary to tell the American millionairess and her young assistants.

The barracks contain everything from cows, goats and chickens to pots, pans, knives, forks, food, clothing and agricultural implements necessary in the procedure of beginning life all over again.

The scope of the work carried on may be judged by the fact that aside from building homes and furnishing them for the most needy villagers, the American millionairess and her nineteen assistants have provided the wherewithal to place 3,000 acres of the Aisne region back under cultivation.

A GROWING PROBLEM

One of the greatest problems that will confront this country during the next few months will be the question of whether or not labor shall be conscripted.

There are arguments pro and con—so much so that the universities of California have selected the subject for their intercollegiate debates, feeling that each can make a good showing regardless of what side it may be called upon to defend.

Without answering any arguments or suggesting any but one, we herewith assert that if the government will eliminate the booze traffic forthwith it will turn loose from channels of physical destruction into the channels of production of war necessities enough labor so that the problem will not have to be considered for many months, and make more efficient those already employed in war industries so that the problem can be delayed even longer.—Hollywood Citizen.

There are people who rarely wink. How they manage to get along without doing so is a marvel, but somehow or other they do. Some eyes are naturally more moist than others, and the very moist eye does not so much need the assistance of the lids to keep the eyeball bright. It is a constitutional matter, for winking, though under the control of the will, is done so quickly that it is practically an involuntary action. Men wink when they feel that the eye is uncomfortably dry, and when it does not become dry the necessity for winking is not felt.

LAND SPECULATION

At this moment there are 400 million acres of idle land in the United States of America! Seventy-three per cent of the country is therefore idle. Forty-five per cent of the land laid out for farm land—nearly half—is idle.

For approximately thirty years land in the United States has not been priced according to its earning capacity, but according to its speculative value. Farm land in the west has not been bought for farming purposes; bless you, no; farming was never thought of except as bait on a prospectus. It was bought as an investment. From 1900 to 1910, for example, while available acreage in the United States increased 5 per cent and the number of farmers increased a trifle less than 11 per cent, the value of farm land increased 118 per cent.

These land values are increasing at the rate of 5 per cent a year or better, and their ownership is concentrated into very few hands. Three per cent of the population own nearly all the land values in the United States.

As soon as one gets a sense of this clearly in mind there is no trouble about explaining this phenomenon of idle land. It seems like the acme of absurdity to say so, but as an industry there is not one cent of money in farming. All the profits are in the rise of land values. No matter, therefore, how great the pressure on production, no matter how much an increase of the food supply is needed, these immense stretches of land remain idle because it does not pay to cultivate them. They are held at a monopoly price so far ahead of their earning capacity that the capital charges eat up too much of the income.

ARMY DISCIPLINE GOOD

As the soldiers return home for short visits or see their friends at the camps they are telling a mighty interesting story of their first weeks of training. It is a revelation to many men who formerly were used to home comforts.

The first days seemed pretty rough to many of them. Their mothers or wives had fixed up comforts for them. They were not allowed to keep many of these. It is the principle of the new army that all the men are to be equipped alike. It is not wished that some have luxuries not enjoyed by others.

When a man has been used to home cooking, comfortable or luxurious rooms, and many little conveniences, it goes a bit hard to come down to the bare necessities of army living.

Then they had to march and march and go through laborious and hardening exercises, their muscles ached, and their feet burned But gradually they got the contagious enthusiasm of those around them. Then they began to feel ashamed because they got fatigued so easily. Day by day the fresh air and hearty eating braced them up and they felt able to perform stunts that would have prostrated them six weeks before. Men who used to drink regularly learned the advantage of temperance. Lazy men are finding out the benefits of active exercise. Indoor workers now know what a tonic the open air is.

When parents and friends come to visit, they hardly know the boy. He has a clearer eye, a more erect carriage, a firmer step. If he had too much flesh it is gone. There is no doubt that army life is working wonders for the boys, and it will make them able to endure hardships that they never could have stood before. —Whittier News.

ADVERTISING CROWDED OUT AGAIN

Another instance today of reading matter crowding advertising out of the Evening News columns. We hope this state of affairs will not happen often, but if our advertisers will please forbear the disappointment, we will promise to take care of their interests in the future. Christmas news must have the preference.

ARMY VS. NAVY

Flower slackers beware! The Rose Vigilantes will get you if you don't watch out. They are from Pasadena, and are making their bow to the public for the first time this year. The vigilantes are an organization of high school girls formed to protect flowers and foster their growth during December, in order that the supply for decorating floats to be entered in the annual Rose Tournament parade New Year's day may be unlimited. Every family is asked by the Vigilantes to donate at least a few flowers. In the aggregate they amount to many thousands of blossoms.

The work of the Vigilantes, and the fact that weather conditions have been ideal for weeks past, should mean more flowers than ever before for the floral pageant, and the result will be a parade that will surpass anything of the kind attempted in the past.

The Mare Island Marines and Camp Lewis football team, to play in Pasadena the afternoon of Tournament day, are going through a period of intensified training and football experts declare they will put up the greatest game of the year. Net proceeds go to the Red Cross.

CHRISTMAS GATHERING

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stauffacher and daughter Marguerite, of 421 Orange Grove avenue, entertained informally with a Christmas dinner, their guests remaining for an afternoon of music and social chat. Their home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with poinsettias, holly and pepper berries. Some of the guests who enjoyed their hospitality were from widely separated cities but that in no way interfered with their enjoyment of the party. The list included: Mrs. J. H. Knock and Masters Herbert and Mervin Timm of Long Beach, A. C. Timm of Covina, Henson Rogers of Dallas, Texas, Miss Josephine Ashby and John D. Stauffacher of Chino, and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Stauffacher of Glendale.

WEATHER FORECAST.—Unsettled tonight and Thursday. Probably rain. Southwesterly winds.

TROPICO TRUSTEES MEET

All members of the Tropico Board of Trustees were present at the weekly meeting which was held Monday evening except Trustee Veselich. It was a brief session and the items of business considered were few.

Communications read by City Clerk Van Wie included a couple of telegrams from the Chairman of the National Defenders' Yuletide Committee asking for an additional appropriation for soldiers' Christmas boxes. It was ordered placed on file.

Audit of Books

Communications were received from two firms of public accountants, concerning an audit of the city's books, viz. from H. A. Reed and from the Baskerville Audit Company. On motion of trustee Henry the board voted to accept the proposition of the Baskerville Audit Company to do the work on a basis of $15 per day with the probability that it would consume seven to ten days' time.

Members of the Fire Company asked for the use of the Council Chamber Saturday night for an entertainment for the benefit of the company, which request was granted by the Board.

Mass Meeting

As it seems advisable that citizens of the district should thoroughly understand the proposed issue of bonds to extending the water and lighting systems of Glendale to Tropico, the Board voted to call a mass meeting at the City hall for Friday evening, December 28th at which time the Glendale Board of Trustees and members of the Public Service Department would be present to discuss the matter and present facts and figures to Tropico voters.

Demands

The following demands which had been improved by the Finance Committee were then ordered paid:

Baker Hardware Co., incidentals for Fire Dept.	$6.30
J. R. Maxwell, for street labor..	6.25

YULETIDE BOXES

MRS. STEPHEN PACKER TELLS OF THE JOY THEY BROUGHT TO FORT MAC ARTHUR

On learning from their son Donald, who is at Fort MacArthur, that a distribution of Yuletide boxes would be made there last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Packer drove to San Pedro to witness it, taking as guests Mr. and Mrs. Arthur and their daughter Mrs. John Maul, whose husband is a major in the regular army and now on his way to France. Mrs. Packer served on Glendale's Yuletide Committee which raised $528 for the cause, and she was especially interested. The exercises took place at the Lower Reservation and a whole regiment was present besides about 500 new arrivals from Arizona and Texas. Every soldier in the regiment received a Christmas box containing in addition to many useful articles, a one-dollar express order. The new boys from Texas and Arizona were also remembered with boxes. Although they did not contain express orders, in all other respects were identical. "I wish," reports Mrs. Packer, "that everybody who had anything to do with that campaign or who contributed to it could have been present and seen the pleasure it gave those boys to receive the boxes, and their appreciation of them. It fully compensated me for all the work I did in that connection. There were also some other slight gifts distributed by Masonic and Eastern Star lodges whose representatives participated in the exercises. I would not have missed it for anything, and I am sure every Glendale giver will feel happier for knowing of the joy the Christmas boxes brought the recipients."

THE EXEMPTION BOARD

Of the registrants who appeared before the Exemption Board in the Chamber of Commerce this morning, a good many were Mexicans who needed help at every step of the way in the filling out of their Questionnaires.

F. D. Lanterman, chairman of the board, stated that of the first hundred registrants to whom Questionnaires were sent whose time to appear will expire today, about twenty have failed thus far to report. If they do not come during the day, they will be listed in the first class and will be called for service on the first call. No appeal can be accepted from anybody who fails to return his Questionnaire within the time allowed him.

Mr. Lanterman also asked the Evening News to make public the fact that the Board is very desirous that patriotic citizens should cooperate with it in obtaining the absolute facts in regard to registrants.

NEW THOUGHT CENTER

Masonic Temple, 532 South Brand boulevard.

Last Sunday morning, the children of the Sunday School gave a beautiful little program of Christmas songs, recitations, violin and piano numbers.

The decorations of pepper boughs, the brave little Christmas tree decked in all its finery with candles burning bright, filled each childish heart with delight. Miss Olive Williams, the leader, then gave to each a bag of Christmas goodies and a little remembrance.

After this Sunday School program, Mrs. W. H. Huntington, of Los Angeles was the speaker for the eleven o'clock service. Her subject was "The Divinity in Desire."

"In the old thought, we were taught to curb, to suppress all desire, but in this new civilization, we know that desire is the God-urge within, that which pushes us on to further heights. Our desires show what we are and we must ever make them finer.

"The four fundamental desires of man are health, wealth, love and service.

"We all want health and we want all to have health. We cannot think well nor do our best unless we have health.

"We all want wealth enough to be free to do and to have that which we desire. Money is neither good, bad, or indifferent, it merely helps us express that which we are.

"Money may make a nobler being of you, may enable you to express much more freely the divinity within you; while the man beside you may make no such use of his money and yet be expressing himself by its use.

"Love is the fulfilling of the law—not the law—but its fulfillment. We all want love—we want to love and to be loved. When we can attain unto the God-consciousness, we will love everybody and like a magnet attract all love to ourselves.

"When we so love as the fulfilling of the law, we are ready for service. The highest service for God is serving man while the highest service to man is working for God and the Good.

"Let us learn to express the divinity within us, to kindle the fires of divine desire that we may reach the heights of realization of the God-consciousness."

Mrs. W. F. Newlin sang two beautiful Christmas selections, accompanied by Mrs. R. H. Kimball.

It is a good plan in starting in business to lay plans for the future success of that business. It is wise to lay a substantial foundation when starting in any kind of business.

HORSESHOE CLUB NOTES

Some time ago I told you about the home club going to Long Beach and how the beachites got their goat (Billy). If anyone asks you tell them Billy is home again, came last Saturday escorted by ten star horse shoe artists, from the Long Beach club. Billy looked natural only his whiskers needed trimming. He said the beachites believed in long whiskers so the wind could blow through them as they stood and listened to what the wild waves were saying. They told me coming up it was only for a day's visit as they expected me to return with them, but I don't want to go back. The beach is a fine place and full of fine people and it is all right for a few days, but for me I prefer the ever-changing mountain scenery for regular diet, around Greater Glendale. So tell Capt. Head and the boys to get busy, I want to stay.

Well Billy will stay with us this time for Glendale won a majority of the 50 games played. It was a good scrap. The line-up and games in detail follows:

Several visitors from the Pomona club were present Saturday.

The Pomona club threatens to visit the home club the first Saturday in January, 1918 to capture our goat. 'Tis all a bluff, I think Billy. We will call them just the same and try and have "four of a kind" to call on.

Saturday, December 29th, the annual meeting of the club will be held to elect officers for the ensuing year. At the store of Gene Porter, at 7:30 p. m.

DECEMBER

(Written by Virginia Buxton, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Turck, when she was 10 years old.)

The raging wind blew fiercely,
Trees trembled at the sound
And all the leaves had fallen
Upon the bare dry ground.
The tiniest, purest snowflakes
Came fluttering all around—
'Till they covered the barns and houses,
So the roofs could not be found.

Jack Frost came slyly forward
In the night with a mighty sweep
And he bit the noses of children
Whom he knew to be fast asleep.
He also painted the windows
With woods and forests deep
And left not a clear space open
For their eager eyes to peep.

The children came out of the houses
At first their faces were white
Then they turned red and rosy—
In their eyes shone a happy light.
For Jack Frost had come, 'twas certain
And his visit made them bright
When they made a snow ball and snow men
Their joy was at its height.

Christmas time was coming,
With all its laughter and joy
And Santa Claus was making gifts
For every good girl and boy.
O! you couldn't imagine their goodness
When they thought of the coming toy
Or some fine present from Santa,
The ever bringer of joy.

What Santa Claus had brought them
Gave happiness to all—
From mother's lovely diamond brooch
To Baby Billie's ball.
The little girls had dollies—
The boys had trains so small
That when Billie stood beside them
He seemed very, very tall.

The holidays were over,
And they started back to school,
'Twas time to use their Christmas skates—
Upon the icy pool.
'Twas time to ride their brand new sleds
And glide along to school.
'Twas time to settle down to work
And learn the Golden Rule.

A man should follow the occupation for which he is adapted so far as it is possible for him to do so. Misfits in this world are the cause of great trouble.

Both when well started have a steady growth. You can start your account this month. Even though it be a small one at first, if you will steadily add to it in a few years you will have a capital worth working for.

INCOME TAX INFORMATION

In a communication received by this paper, Collector of Internal Revenue John P. Carter announces that a federal income tax officer will be sent into this county on January 2, and will be here until March 1, 1918. He will have his office in the Federal Building in Los Angeles and will be there every day ready and willing to help persons subject to the income tax make out their returns without any cost to them for his services.

How many income-tax payers will there be in Los Angeles County? If you can guess how many married persons living with wife or husband will have net incomes of $2,000 or over and how many unmarried persons will have net incomes of $1,000 or over this year, then you know. The Collector of Internal Revenue estimates that there will be 37,500 taxpayers in this county.

Returns of income for the year 1917 must be made on forms provided for the purpose before March 1, 1918. Because a good many people don't understand the law and won't know how to make out their returns the government is sending in this expert to do it for them. But the duty is on the taxpayer to make himself known to the government. If he does not make return as required before March 1st he may have to pay a penalty ranging from $20 to $1000, pay a fine or go to jail. So if you don't want to take chances on going to jail, you better call on the income tax man. If you are not sure about being subject to the tax, better ask him and make sure. Whether you see the income tax man or not, you must make return if subject to tax.

Of course, persons resident in other counties may, if they want to, come and see the income tax man who will be at Los Angeles on the above mentioned dates.

The Collector suggests that everybody start figuring up now his income and expenses so as to be ready with the figures when the expert arrives. Expenses, however, don't mean family expenses, money used to pay off the principal of a debt, new machinery, buildings, or anything like that. They mean what you spend in making your money—interest, taxes paid, hired help, amount paid for goods sold, seed, stock bought for feeding, rent (except for your dwelling), etc. Income includes about every dollar you get.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO REGISTRANTS

Under jurisdiction of Local Exemption Board District No. 7, whose order numbers are between No. 801 and No. 889 inclusive.

There has this day been mailed to you a questionnaire which you are required by law to execute and return within seven days from date hereof.

Failure to do so constitutes a misdemeanor punishable by not to exceed one year's imprisonment; and such failure may also deprive you of valuable rights and result in your immediate induction into military service and trial by court-martial.

Dated December 26, 1917.

Member of Local Board.

CALIFORNIA ROADS

A road connecting the Imperial Valley-San Diego State Highway with the Laguna Mountains will be completed early in 1918, according to a statement given out by the Acting District Forester today. This road will be a lateral of the State Highway, ten miles long, and will cost approximately $30,000. It will have an average grade of 5 per cent, and nowhere will be more than 8 per cent.

The completion of this road will throw open for recreation purposes one of the finest outdoor regions in the National Forests in California. The Lagunas, owing to their comparative inaccessibility, have heretofore been visited only by the cattlemen and occasional hunter. Before the right-of-way for the road was cleared, they could be approached only by rough road and trail through miles of chaparral hills. Long before the coming of the white men the Lagunas were favorite hunting grounds of Indians. Visitors can still pick up arrowheads, and bits of Indian pottery, and the holes worn in the rocks by Indian women grinding acorn meal are to be seen in many places.

The chief feature of the Laguna region is a broad plateau of about 5000 acres containing long rolling meadows, streams, and lakes. The low hills are covered with giant oaks and pine, and for the most part are free of brush, all of which gives the region a parklike appearance. The altitude of the plateau is between 5500 and 6300 feet. From the highest point, Monument Peak, a wonderful view of the mountains of Mexico, the Salton Sea, the Colorado Desert and Imperial Valley is obtainable.

The Forest Service has reserved the entire region for the recreation seeker. Under the direction of Frank A. Waha, professor of landscape engineering at Amherst College, and consulting engineer of the Forest Service, the tracts have been surveyed and subdivided for building purposes, and for public camp grounds. Lots averaging half an acre in size will be rented by the Government for summer homes and permanent camps. Sites have been reserved for public, municipal and playground camps, athletic fields, including baseball diamonds and golf courses. More than five hundred lots will be available for occupancy in the spring, and more will be laid out as needed. The Lagunas can be reached within about 25 miles by railroad from Campo, and upon the completion of the new auto road will be three or four hours away from San Diego and El Centro by automobile.

CONSERVATION IN THE WILDS

The American people are learning many valuable lessons in conservation and the end of the war will find us utilizing many waste products which formerly cumbered the earth to no purpose so far as commercial utility was concerned. Some of these products which are being put to use have been enumerated by the Forestry Department at Washington. For instance, the yucca plant or Spanish bayonet, common in the hills of Southern California, is now being used for the manufacture of brooms. Another species of the yucca is used for the manufacture of surgeons' splints, and is being experimented with for use as artificial limbs.

The common manzanita bush, grown everywhere in California, may be of value in dye making. A carload of stems and roots was recently shipped from northern California to an eastern dye manufacturer for experimental purposes.

The root swellings or burls of the wild lilac are proving valuable as a substitute for briar in the manufacture of tobacco pipes.

Bay rum, used in toilet preparations, is manufactured from the California bay tree, and quinine is produced from the wild quinine bush that grows widely over the southern deserts.

THE FIRST INTEREST INSTALLMENT

On December 15 the first installment of interest on the two billion dollars of the first issue of Liberty Loan Bonds became due. The amount approximated $35,000,000, being $1.75 interest on every one hundred dollars of bonds.

Holders of coupon bonds obtain their interest money from any bank or post office in the country by simply presenting their coupons. Holders of registered bonds are sent checks for their interest by the Treasury.

Hereafter every six months ten to fifteen million American citizens are to receive interest money on their Liberty Loan Bonds from the United States Government. This is going to create a closer and more direct association of these citizens with their Government, and the effect of this association is going to be of great value to these citizens and of great value to the Nation in making them more personally interested in their Government and more active and alert in the exercise of their duties and rights as citizens. Every Liberty Bond holder is going to be an active champion of wise and economic legislation and administration.

The Liberty Loan is not only a great financial transaction; it is a great national force, a great national bond between the bondholders and their country, a great influence for better government and better citizenship.

U. S. FIGHTERS INSURED IN THE WORLD'S BIGGEST COMPANY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Of all the monster war mushrooms that have grown on Uncle Sam's doorstep here since war was declared, the great insurance mushroom is perhaps the most unique.

"Up to the close of business today" said a statement from the bureau, "the miltary and naval division of war risk insurance had received 194,222 applications from American fighting men.

"These applications represent insurance of $1,665,184,000. The average amount of insurance applied for per man is $8,574, the maximum permitted by the law being $10,000 and the minimum $1,000.

"Applications continue to come in at a fast rate, averaging about $55,000,000 a day."

It is believed that this government insurance baby is the biggest insurance company in the history of the world.

The whole thing is chuck full of human interest of the deepest dye. Just as this statement was being prepared for the United Press there came the story of a soldier at the front who was killed fifteen minutes after he had signed application for a $10,000 policy for his mother, dependent on him for support back in America.

Starting at zero when the war insurance, allowance and compensation law went into effect October 6, it has grown in the few intervening weeks into a monster government machine, intricate, complicated and exacting, functioning perfectly and growing like mad.

At the present moment there is gathered from the four corners of the land, a working force of nine hundred and sixty-seven men, women and girls, working long hours feverishly.

This force merely inaugurates the work of selling America's fighting men from $1,000 to $10,000 worth of insurance each, of seeing that dependents get their allowances and that wounded men get their compensation.

With practically 1,000 workers hard at it getting the system under way, and new faces being added at the rate of 100 to 200 a week, it is estimated that this force will number several thousands before the work has progressed another six months.

In the long, high-ceilinged rooms packed full of girls at clattering typewriters, here is a stenographer from Seattle and beside her one from Tennessee. An office boy from Maine slaps batches of correspondence on both their desks, which came from a man who volunteered from Alaska. Most of these young folk never had seen Washington until a few weeks ago and none of them have had a chance to more than glance at it since they arrived.

This bureau has planked its units down wherever it could find floor space. Up to the present it has commandeered 10,000 feet of floor space The amount is not so unusual as its location. It is about equally divided between a hospital, a public market and a national museum.

Behind the great, frosted glass doors whose gold lettering informs that therein you will find The Division of Mammals of the National Museum, you come upon a small army of claim experts, packed in the big room like sardines and poring over official papers to see if they're all right.

The bureau just now is receiving and dispatching an average of thirty-four thousand letters every six days.

The organizing genius behind all this is Willard Streight, New York banker and magazine editor.

HISTORIAN GIVES A CLUE TO MEDIAEVAL LABYRINTH

While wartime work now absorbs most of the energies of the University of California, its traditional scholarly interests have not been forgotten. The University has just published a "Guide to the Study of Mediaeval History," a volume of 552 pages, written by Louis John Paetow, Associate Professor of Mediaeval History, in which is accumulated a rich and vast store of material concerning the Middle Ages. This is not a book to sit down and read, but a series of outlines, for the use of teachers and students of the history of the period from the earlier Barbarian invasions to the discovery of America. For each topic a list of books is given. A vast quantity of bibliographical information is made readily available. Characterizations are given of the special qualities and values of a wide range of sources and of secondary historical works. The book is intended as a clue, leading to the treasure-rooms in the enormous labyrinth of the books which deal with mediaeval history.

UNIVERSITY TO TRAIN MEN AS ORDNANCE STOREKEEPERS

Young men who want to qualify themselves to serve as Chief Storekeepers in the Ordnance Corps of the U. S. Army are once more to be given opportunity for special training at the University of California. The War Department has asked the University to give for the third time a six-weeks' Ordnance course, for the training of Chief Storekeepers. Admission will be limited to fifty men and preference will be given to college graduates. In some cases those who have not yet graduated will be admitted upon the basis of considerable business experience. Those who successfully complete the course will be sent to one of the U. S. Arsenals for four weeks of additional training. Those who do good work can count on becoming non-commissioned officers. Applications must be filed with the Dean of the College of Commerce before January 8. The course will begin January 15. The Adjutant-General will notify all local boards of the names of men from their region admitted to this Ordnance course. Such men will not be subject to draft during the time of their attendance on the course, but may rely upon the opportunity of completing the course and then serving in this particular field.

The instruction given will be valuable for business life after the war, as it will include not only Army methods but bookkeeping, typewriting, conversational French, and stores handling as developed in great industrial plants, which have made a science of efficient management.

SOLDIER ATHLETES

NEW YORK, December 26.—"A division of soldier athletes—that is our goal at Camp Upton," Frank Glick, director of athletics at that Camp, told The United Press. Glick, a former athlete of renown at Princeton, is working solely to that end, and gaining results of the most tangible sort.

"Working on the assumption that the man who plays best makes the best fighter, our athletic program is so drawn up to reach every individual in camp, not with the purpose of specializing in developing champion athletes, but rather so that all may be given a chance to play—and play well," he continued.

Camp Upton is located on Long Island, just a few miles out of New York. Its quota has been drawn from the densely populated portions of New York and nearby points. As a matter of course, there are some very excellent athletes included in the camp, and, given these as a basis, there should be turned out a most extraordinary set of soldier athletes.

Regimental officers, according to Glick, are the most active in carrying out purposes for which athletics has been introduced into the camp. Fifteen regimental football teams were in camp. This, however, is only a small part of athletics in the camp. Baseball was played so long as the weather was decent. Likewise, soccer and other outdoor games. As cold weather came the men were removed to inside quarters for their games and readily took up indoor baseball, basketball and indoor sports that run the whole line.

"Think of a relay race," Glick said, "in which 300 men participated; another where 240 men ran, a hand grenade contest with 200 bombers, and in like manner the other events featured."

And that's only a circumstance connected with the athletic development going on in Camp Upton. The men are given every chance to enjoy themselves at the games they like best and there is a certain amount of recreative drill, conducted along the lines of athletic training, every day. The old setting up exercises are begrudgingly giving over to scientific training methods.

TREE INSECTS

The damage done by tree-killing insects in the forests of the Sierra Nevadas, between the Rubicon River and the Tule Indian Reservation, amounted to about $65,000 in 1917, according to a report made public today by the Acting District Forester. Within this area is to be found about 18 per cent of the standing sugar and yellow pine in the state. Seventy-five per cent of the damage done is wholly within the Sierra and Sequoia National Forests.

The above statement is based upon the results of a complete investigation made this summer by experts of the Forest Service and the Bureau of Entomology in cooperation with National Park officials and private owners of large timber holdings.

Insect infestation in the forests of California has long been fought by the Forest Service. The chief method of control consists in spotting or discovering the infested trees, cutting the trees, peeling the bark and burning it. The trees may then be used for lumber purposes, if transportation to the mills is available.

It has been demonstrated that the insect colonies preferably breed in trees weakened or injured by fire, disease, or in freshly cut material that results from logging operations, or the clearing of land. In epidemics, however, more healthy trees are attacked than those weakened or injured. A thoroughly healthy and vigorous tree, able to exude great quantities of pitch, will often overcome and drive out the colonies. The preference of the insects for weakened trees is taken advantage of in control operations. Weakened trees within badly infested areas are cut in the spring by the Forest officer and then burned in the fall or winter, when they have become infested. Often it is found that seventy-five per cent of these fallen or "trap trees" have befome infested during the summer months.

Timber destruction by insects is not confined to California. Tree killing beetles are said to be found in every forest. Several years ago nearly every tree on one tract of 13,000 acres within the Black Hills of South Dakota was entirely killed.

There is talk among the business men of Glendale of suggesting ways and means of educating motorists to observe careful driving.

RECALLS ECONOMY OF 1864

Let the persons who think wheatless and meatless days are a hardship listen to the venerable men and women whose memory takes them back to the Civil war.

Roasted barley, parched corn, chickory roots and even dandelion roots, dried and roasted, were used as coffee substitutes. White or granulated sugars were a rarity, and only on the table for company. Brown sugar and old fashioned black molasses were used for sweetening. Honey, apple butter, fruit jams and even lard were used as substitutes for butter.

Butter was scarce and dear, for those times, and bread and molasses, bread and honey, and even bread and ham fat were considered plenty good enough for all but the very old people. In those days nearly every family in town kept a cow. Those who didn't, as a rule, went without milk. The papers of that day emphasized the fact that coffee and tea were more nutritious when used without milk.—Ex.

THRIFT STAMPS

It is pointed out by the Treasury Department that Thrift Stamps are not made redeemable in cash for the reason that these stamps are simply intended as a convenient method for the small savers to accumulate enough to purchase War Savings Stamps, which bear interest and are redeemable in cash.

In addition, to provide for redemption for these Thrift Stamps would involve such an amount of detailed accounting and labor and expense as to impair the practicability of their use. In fact, they would be more trouble and expense to the Government possibly than they are worth.
